CHARLES SLADE having obtained the agency of the above works for this District, a regular supply of NAILS and BRADS will be kept at his store, on Prince-street, and RICHARD SLADE's store, upper end of King-street, and sold on the same terms as they can be obtained at in Philadelphia. INSCRIPTION

For the tomb erected to the memory of the Marquis of Anglesea's leg.

Here rests, and let no saucy knave
Presume to sneer or laugh—
To learn that, mouldering, in this grave
Is laid—a British calf.

For he who writes these lines is sure,
That those who read the whole,
Will find such laugh were premature,
For here, too, lies—a sole.

And here five little ones repose,
Twin-born with other five,
Undeeded by their brother toes,
Who all are now alive.

A leg and foot, to speak more plain,
Rests here, of one commanding,
Who, though his wits he might retain,
Lost half his understanding.

Who, when the guns, with murder fraught,
Pour'd bullets thick as hail,
Could only, in this way, be brought
To give the foe leg-bail.

Who now, in England, just as gay
As in the battle brave,
Goes to the rout, review, or play,
With one foot in the grave.

Fortune in vain here show'd her spite,
For he will still be found,
Should England's sons engage in fight,
Resolv'd to stand his ground.

But fortune's pardon I must beg,
She wish'd not to disarm;
And when she lopp'd the hero's leg,
She did not seed his h arm!

And but indulg'd a harmless whim—
Since he could walk with one,
She saw two legs were lost on him,
Who never deign'd to run.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE CITY OF MEXICO.

Mexico has been very much embellished since the residence of the Abbe Chappe there in 1769. The edifice destined to the school of mines, for which the richest individuals of the country furnished a sum of more than three million of francs,* would adorn the principal places of Paris or London. Two great palaces [hotels] were lately constructed by Mexican artists, pupils of the academy of Fine Arts of the capital. One of these palaces, in the quarter della Traspana, exhibits in the interior of the court a very beautiful oval perystyle, of coupled columns. The traveller justly admires a vast circumference paved with porphyry flag, and enclosed with an Iron railing, richly ornamented with bronze, containing an equestrian statue† of King Charles the Fourth, placed on a pedestal of Mexican marble, in the midst of the Plaza Major of Mexico, opposite the cathedral and the viceroy's palace. However it must be agreed that notwithstanding the progress of the arts within these last thirty years, it is much less from the grandeur and beauty of the monuments, than from the breadth and straightness of the streets, and much less from its edifices than from its uniform regularity, its extent and position, that the capital of New Spain attracts the admiration of Europeans. From a strange concurrence of circumstances, I have seen successively, within a very short space of time, Lima, Mexico, Philadelphia, Washington,‡ Paris, Rome, Naples, and the largest cities of Germany. By comparing together impressions which follow in rapid succession, we are enabled to rectify any opinion which we may have too easily adopted. Notwithstanding such unavoidable comparisons, of which several, one would think, must have proved disadvantageous to the capital of Mexico, it has left in me a recollection of grandeur which I principally attribute to the majestic character of its situation and the surrounding scenery.

In fact, nothing can present a more rich and varied appearance than the valley, when, in a fine summer morning, the sky without a cloud, and of that deep azure which is peculiar to the dry and refined air of high mountains, we transport ourselves to the top of one of the towers of the cathedral of Mexico, or ascend the hill of Chapoltepec. A beautiful vegetation surrounds this hill. Old cypress trunks§ of more than 15 & 16 metres‖ in circumference, raise their naked head above those of the Scinus, which resemble in their appearance the weeping willows of the east. From the centre of this solitude, the summit of the porphyritical rock of Chapoltepec, the eye sweeps over a vast plain of carefully cultivated fields, which extend to the very feet of the colossal mountains covered with perpetual snow. The city appears as if washed by the waters of the lake of Tezcuco, whose basin, surrounded with villages and hamlets, brings to mind the most beautiful lakes of the mountains of Switzerland. Large avenues of elms and poplars lead in every direction to the capital; and two aqueducts constructed over arches of very great elevation, cross the plain and exhibit an appearance equally agreeable and interesting. The magnificent convent of Nuestra Senora de Gaudaloupe, appears joined to the mountains of Tepeyacac, among ravines, which shelter a few date yucca trees. Towards the south, the whole tract between San Angel, Tacabaya, and San Augustin de las Cuevas, appears an immense garden of Orange, Peach, Apple, Cherry, and other European fruit trees. This beautiful cultivation forms a singular contrast with the wild appearance of the naked mountains which enclose the valley, among which the famous volcanoes of La Puebla, Popocatepetl, and Iztaccihuatl are the most distinguished.—The first of these forms an enormous cone, of which the crater, continually inflamed and throwing up smoke and ashes, opens in the midst of eternal snows.

saw a part completed, the Federal City will undoubtedly one day be a much finer city than Mexico. Philadelphia has also the same mode of construction. The alleys of platanus, acacia, and populous heterophylla, which adorn its streets, almost give it a rural beauty. The vegetation of the banks of the Potomac and Delaware is also richer than what we find 2,300 metres (7,500 feet) of elevation on the ridge of the Mexican Cordilleras. But Washington and Philadelphia will always look like European cities. They will not strike the eyes of the traveller with that peculiar, I may say that exotic character which belongs to Mexico, Santa Fe de Bogata, Quito, and all the tropical capitals, constructed at an elevation as high or higher than the passage of the great St. Bernard.

A Frenchman's understanding of what is meant by "a good stand for business."

Monsieur being about to remove from his shop, his landlord enquired the reason, stating at the same time, that it was considered a very good stand for business—The Frenchman replied with a shrug of the shoulders, Oh. yes, he's very good stand for de business, by g'r me stand all day, nobody come to make me move for de business.

A hint to Portrait Painters.

Lucca Giardina, from the celerity with which he worked, acquired the name of Luca Fa Presto. He was a very skilful imitator of the manners of other painters, and of course, had no very decided manner of his own.—When any one had set to him for his portrait, for which he had not paid, he kept the picture for a certain time in his painting room, after which he wrote upon it, 'this picture is to be sold; the person it represents, adding the name to it, not having paid for it:' and sent it into a sale of pictures.—This never failed to procure him the money.

† This colossal statue was executed at the expense of the Marquis de Brancforte, formerly viceroy of Mexico, brother-in-law to the Prince of Peace. It weighs 450 quintals, and was modelled, founded and placed by the same artist, M. Tolsa, whose name deserves a distinguished place in the history of Spanish sculpture. The merits of this man of genius can only be appreciated by those who know the difficulties with which the execution of these great works of art are attended even in civilized Europe.

HORSE RACING.

It has been often asserted, and I believe with some truth, that the number of Saints' days and holidays devoted to idleness in Spain has been one of the causes of the poverty, laziness and profligacy of the people of that country—idleness being the root of evil and a source of dissipation, degrading vices, and bad habits. It may, however, be considered as less discreditable in that nation, as it arises in them from sentiments and forms of piety according to their mode; in which, however erroneous their tenets may be, we have reason to believe they are sincere.

But it may be doubted whether more of the time which ought to be devoted to useful labor is bestowed by the Spaniards on their kalendar of Saints, than is squandered by Americans upon their pleasures, and not merely in total uselessness, but in actual riot, revelry, and debauchery, under one pretext or other; whether in pretended compliment to their nation or indulgence of their passions and evil habits. The last week, for instance, was in Washington and Georgetown wholly sacrificed to idleness—not for the purposes of harmless enjoyment, but to swell the roar of boisterous drunken revelry, to indulge in brutal intoxication, profligacy, lewdness, and profaneness, to plunder or be stripped by that fashionable mode of theft and robbery called gambling, and to sacrifice all the virtues of the honest man and the citizen, and all the duties of domestic life—of father, husband, brother, neighbor, and friend, to that devouring and contaminating idol of their souls—the spirit of gaming. During that week most kinds of work were suspended—the work shops and stores were emptied—the wharves looked like the streets of cities long depopulated—not a horse, cart, or negro was to be hired for money. "Where are they all gone?" "Gone, sir! Why, to the races to be sure." "I want two or three cords of wood immediately—I have not sufficient for a day's expenditure." "Your cannot get it till Monday."—"Not till Monday! Why?" "Why, sir, you know every one will be at the races for this week." It was almost true; for every one was at the races except the wise, the respectable, the virtuous, and the discreet. It used to be otherwise—the time was when the wise, the respectable, the virtuous, and the discreet, thought it no disparagement to give a day or two in the year, provided they had nothing better to do, to the race course; for the meeting was not then of the complexion it is now. It was what its name intimated—a course where horses ran races—not a field for the banditti of the dice box and E. O. table to congregate upon, like locusts, for the purposes of plundering the inconsiderate, poisoning the morals of our youth, and preparing them for the gallows, if that object were attainable by any excess of improbity and vice. Speaking the other day on the subject of the races to a very worthy gentleman of Virginia, I said to him that I could not conceive what interest any man of common sense could take in the decision of the question whether a grey horse or a bay mare, neither of which belonged to him, could run the fastest; to which he replied, that he had been himself, at one time, extremely fond of and interested in racing—that he considered the thing as very useful in a national view, as promoting the improvement of the breed of horses, but that he had been, of late, so disgusted with the abuse of it, and with the characters and quality of those who frequented the race courses, that he could not bear to attend them. Race courses now are degenerated so entirely into rendezvous of sharks, swindlers, gamblers, pickpockets, drunkards, doxies and impures, that persons of respectability and delicacy, and particularly modest ladies, have almost entirely deserted them. It is for this reason, however, that our rising youth feel the attraction of those sinks of iniquity act more powerfully upon them, and that, on that account alone, if there were no other, they ought to be suppressed. It is no small evil to a nation to have periodical meetings in different parts of it, where the hosts of sharpers and gamblers who infest, congregate together, by signal, to concert their plans of fraud, and unfledge the unsuspecting youth of the country at once of their own moral parity and the property of their parents or employers.

COTTON.

Unlimited orders from the North have created a competition in our cotton market, which, we presume, will not eventuate much to the profit of our adventurous purchasers. This article is now selling at 32 cents, and advancing. The last quotations from England are 19d. a 20d. which should not justify with us, a higher price than 25 or 27 cents. How long our market can sustain this artificial tone, will depend principally upon the spirit and funds of our enterprising capitalists. Nothing has a more destructive tendency upon a fair and regular course of trade, than a blind monopoly goaded on by an infallible and wild competition.

FROM AMELIA ISLAND.

Extract of a letter from St. Mary's, dated the 14th instant.

"It appears indeed extremely doubtful as to the fate of the Floridas; the continental jealousy and dissatisfaction existing among themselves, (the Patriots) rather promise a total dissolution of the whole concern. When gen. MacGregor had the command they were dissatisfied, and pretended a belief that the general's sole motive was self aggrandizement, and to favor Scotch interest. After the general's resignation, they gave the command to col. Irwin; in a very little while, they again became restless and dissatisfied. When commodore Aury came in with two rich prizes, Irwin resigned, and the commodore took the command—now just as fickle as ever, they wish to put their new chief out, for some other favorite of the moment. In the mean time, their situation has become extremely critical and unpleasant; the  troops and sailors, characters of the worst description from St. Domingo and other of the West India islands, now about 150 in number, brought in by the commodore, and the other privateers, insist upon equal rights and privileges with the whites, and otherwise very insolent; indeed, so as to assume equal command. The whites have come to a resolution to drive them off the Island, or perish in the attempt; both parties being enraged against each other, are now actually in arms, and should the dispute end in a conflict, dreadful indeed will be the carnage, as neither side would give quarters. Neither are we on this side, (owing to the nature of the quarrel, and character of the parties) without alarm and apprehensions as to the consequences, and nothing it seems, will give security to both sides of the river, but the cession of East and West Florida, which I, as well as all orderly and well disposed persons towards this country, heartily wish may not be far distant. No more prizes have come in since my last, there being no court of admiralty as yet on the island, and consequently none of the prize goods imported into the United States have been legally condemned, or even sold.—The prize goods that have been introduced into this place, and from hence to Savannah and your place, are on the commodore's own responsibility and security to his men for the amount of their shares. General MacGregor it is generally said, is gone to some part of South America."

Extract of another letter, dated 15th instant.

"I was at Amelia Island last Sunday evening—while there, a considerable disturbance took place between the whites and *. They were all armed, and I really expected every moment to see a battle royal. The  got all into the fort, and posted themselves as well as they could, although in great confusion; they kept the fort all the evening. The sailors paraded a 24 pounder abreast the picquets, and were determined to bring them to action; but fortunately, by the great activity of the governors and officers, they quelled the fray pretty smoothly, but with great difficulty. The sailors were so enraged at the attempt of the  to command them, that they would have died in the contest; they were determined, if a conflict had ensued, to destroy the ruffians. It is reported the  will all be shipped off the island—this step can alone restore harmony to the place. There are six or seven private armed vessels there, as also several prizes. Only one of the prize ships is at present discharging—her cargo principally consists of sugar, intended to be shipped here in small parcels to St. Mary's, to be sold at auction. Five privateers and five prizes are expected every day; the latter said, among other articles, to have a considerable quantity of Specie. I think the privateersmen will fare well there. It is rather unhealthy at Amelia—two or three from the force there, die every day."

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM AMELIA ISLAND.

Extract of a letter to the editor, dated at St. Mary's, 18th October.

"Annexed you will find a proclamation, which I have hastily copied for you. But notwithstanding the language which it breathes a revolution is still brewing; the American party is now waiting for commodore Champlin's arrival, when they will carry the day. At present every thing is in a state of suspence; no business doing; no prize sales have yet taken place, nor will, until the affair is settled. The schr. Antelope, from Savannah, has just arrived here, and also a brig from New-York, with notions. This evening arrived a prize with SLAVES, which the U. States brig SARANAC has detained, as some have been smuggled. She has now 5 prizes here."

PROCLAMATION.

The Supreme Junta of the Floridas, to the inhabitants of Amelia.

A horrid plot had threatened to ruin in its infancy, our rising republic. Discord ever ready to spread its baneful alarms, had put us on the brink of a civil war; fortunately, we still preserved among us, respect for liberty and the cause we defend. We have discovered the secret machination of a depotic government, and we have saved ourselves from ruin, into which Spanish perfidy was on the eve of plunging us.

Yes citizens, the terrible blow that threatened us, proceeded from the intrigues of our cowardly enemy; we have the most certain conviction of it. Only cast a look upon the promoters and leaders of the horrid scenes that have taken place. Is there amongst them, one of the bravest, who so valiantly and so gloriously defended this place, against forces ten times more numerous? No! the eye searches in vain for one of them.—Wherever it perceives a leader, it beholds a person who abandoned you in the hour of danger; it beholds men who, guided by their own self-interests, trifle with the shedding of the blood of the gallant defenders of liberty. Provided they accomplish their object their views are accomplished. It is you, brave seamen, who have made so many sacrifices; it is your valor they wish to set forward for the perpetration of deeds so execrable. They create a huge phantom, when in reality it is but a chimera. What would have been the results, had we unfortunately, been compelled to come to extremities, and sent off those, who it is said were to be sent off? By coming to extremities in a most cruel butchery.—By sending them off deprive this infant republic of the succour of valiant men, who have fought with you, until now, and will never abandon you in the hour of danger. Had this happened, you, gallant seamen, would most assuredly have followed the route dictated by honor; but weakened by it, you would have fallen a sacrifice to treachery and individual views; and the few remaining, whose valor would have sustained until the last, would have found themselves compelled to abandon this place, and fulfilled the wishes of our implacable enemies, who have no other means of destroying the germs of liberty, but dissention among its defenders. This would not have been the only evil; a greater one for yourselves would have ensued.—Remorse, despair would have attended your consciences to the grave, when cool reflection and calmness had told you, that you had stained your hands with the blood of Patriots, who long defended the cause we have embraced; and that by Castilian intrigues.

Brave and gallant seamen! let us return thanks to that Divine Providence, which hovers and watches with a careful eye over this infant republic, for having saved us from the perpetration of such direful deeds: Let us be united; and let this example, for the future, serve us as a lesson, to be upon our guard against seduction.

J. H. Elton, esq. commander of the U. States brig Saranac, has libelled in the District Court of Georgia, the armed schr. rigged boat Sarah, and the Spanish schr. Santa Cruz, her prize, in company with which she was taken, on the 4th inst. as they entered the St. Mary's river.—The Sarah is the same boat that was picked up in this harbor, the last summer; was refitted here by John Morrison, and sailed from hence for Amelia; from thence she proceeded on a cruise to the coast of Cuba, where the above prize was made, together with the British schr. Two Brothers, from Nassau bound to Barracoa, which they captured and plundered; turned the crew on shore, and brought in company with the above prize to the mouth of the St. Marys, when she was also detained by the Saranac, and has since arrived at Savannah, in charge of a crew from that vessel. The late commander of the Sarah, (Edward Ferner,) made his escape from the Two Brothers, at Jekyl Island, where she touched on her passage from St. Marys to Savannah

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

The following case, arising out of the late Navigation Act of the United States, has been decided by Judge Drayton in the court of Admiralty:

The United States of America, vs. Brig Mary and 85 hogsheads of rum, 2 barrels of Oranges, and 4 barrels of Limes. } This case a-rose out of the late navigation act of the United States, and libels were filed by the District Attorney against the vessel and cargo, as having arrived in the port of Charleston on the 5th October, 1817, from Jamaica, in the West Indies: the said brig not being then a vessel of the United States, nor a foreign vessel, truly and wholly belonging to the citizens or subjects of any country of which the said goods are the growth, production or manufacture; or from which such goods can only be, or most usually are, first shipped for transportation, and which had not then adopted a regulation similar to the regulation mentioned in the first section of the act of Congress of the said U. States, approved the 1st March 1817, and entitled 'an act concerning the Navigation of the U. States,' contrary to the true intent and meaning, and against the form of the statute in such case made and provided.—By reason whereof, the said brig or vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, and the said goods, wares and merchandise, have become forfeited, etc.

Parker, District Attorney, suggested to the court, that since the libels had been filed, it was ascertained the Mary was a British vessel, and the cargo was the produce of a British island or colony in the West Indies; that the term country, used in the first section of the act, embraced every part of the British Territories, however widely separated, which are subject to the same Supreme Executive and Legislative Authority; therefore, the act being complied with, no forfeiture had accrued. Whence, he moved the court, to dismiss the libels, and to certify a probable cause of seizure.

John Drayton, District Judge.—This is the first case, which has occurred before me, under the late navigation act of the United States.* The British brig Mary and cargo, have been seized by the collector; and they are severally libelled in this court, on the supposition, that the said navigation act had been intringed.—Doubts had arisen, as to the construction of the term country, used in the first section of said act, "Of which, the goods "are the growth, production, or manu-"facture; or, for which, such goods, "wares, or merchandise, can only be, or "most usually are, first shipped for trans-"portation." It was supposed, this vessel coming from the British West Indies, must be also owned in the British West-Indies; and that the law might have required her to have been owned, at the very British Island, from whence the cargo had been shipped. Upon a fair construction, however, of the late navigation act, and of the convention done at London in 1815† between the United States of America and his Britannic majesty, for regulating the commerce between the territories of the United States, and his Britannic majesty, I am of opinion, the term country would most appropriately be considered, as alluding to all the territories of his Britannic majesty, as relating to shipping: So that the ships and vessels of one portion of his Britannic majesty's dominions or territories, may carry the goods of the growth, production, or manufacture of another portion of his said majesty's dominions or territories. Hence, British vessels, bringing British cargoes, of the growth, production, or manufacture, of the British Islands or colonies in the West Indies, into the ports of the United States, are within the meaning and intention of the navigation act of the United States. To decide otherwise, would be construing a state paper, and act springing out of it, by a rule, which would lead to endless embarrassments between the two nations, in their commercial relations; and might tend to frustrate the very ends for which both the commercial convention, and the navigation act of the United States, have been framed.

It is true, that by the latter part of the second article of the said convention,‡ each party remains in the complete possession of its rights, as respects any intercourse with his Britannic Majesty's possessions in the West Indies and on the continent of North America. And until those rights be further legislated upon by the congress of the United States, there can be no forfeiture under the present act of navigation, of a British vessel, importing a British cargo, of the growth, production, or manufacture of a British island in the West Indies. In passing the late navigation act, congress determined how far they would then proceed, in acting upon their rights, as to the commercial intercourse of the United States with the British West Indies; and

Hence, British vessels, bringing British cargoes, of the growth, production, or manufacture, of the British Islands or colonies in the West Indies, into the ports of the United States, are within the meaning and intention of the navigation act of the United States. To decide otherwise, would be construing a state paper, and act springing out of it, by a rule, which would lead to endless embarrasments between the two nations, in their commercial relations; and might tend to frustrate the very ends for which both the commercial convention, and the navigation act of the United States, have been framed.

It is true, that by the latter part of the second article of the said convention,‡ each party remains in the complete possession of its rights, as respects any intercourse with his Britannic Majesty's possessions in the West Indies and on the continent of North America. And until those rights be further legislated upon by the congress of the United States, there can be no forfeiture under the present act of navigation, of a British vessel, importing a British cargo, of the growth, production, or manufacture of a British island in the West Indies. In passing the late navigation act, congress determined how far they would then proceed, in acting upon their rights, as to the commercial intercourse of the United States with the British West Indies; and although that body have the power of enforcing our national rights, and of increasing the restrictions in the premises, yet, as they have not done so, the act can only prevail so far as its provisions have contemplated.

It is not, however, to be inferred that, because such restrictions have not been enacted in the navigation act, the British trade from the British West India islands is upon the same footing of reciprocity which it is from the British European territories with the United States;—for, by the revenue laws of the United States, 10 per cent. is required on the amount of goods imported from the British West Indies, together with alien tonnage duties of $2 per ton, and of 50 cents light money, more than is required from British vessels coming from British European ports; and the goods so imported are under the restriction of not being allowed to be re-shipped for drawback.

As then, the brig Mary has entered this port of the United States under the provisions of the late navigation act; and as both the vessel and cargo are British property, and the latter is the growth, produce, and manufacture of Jamaica, a British island in the West Indies, there is no cause for further arrestation; although there has been a probable and reasonable cause of seizure.

It is, therefore, ordered that both vessel and cargo be restored on payment of costs.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

Captain Ray, at Nantucket, from the Pacific Ocean, put into Talcaguama on the 20th June for supplies, and laid there three days. The place was garrisoned with about 2,000 king's troops; they had had no action with the Patriot troops since the latter took the city of Conception. The garrison was short of provisions—particularly bread. Captain Ray obtained wood, water, and some bullocks, in exchange for bread, and was well treated. There was then lying at Talcaguama one frigate, one sloop of war, three gun brigs, and a number of ships, &c. The Patriots possessed all the country around, except the peninsula on which the garrison stands. The Royalists expected a reinforcement from Lima, and should they be disappointed in that, they talked of evacuating the place in about one month; they had vessels enough to take all their troops off. They were not annoyed by the Patriots, who, having cut off all supplies from the country, calculated on starving them out. The cannon in the forts were dismounted, ready to be taken off, should they be under the necessity of leaving.

DEATH OF HAYDN.

London, Sept. 15.

Haydn, at the age of 78, died at Vienna, during the attack on that capital by the French in 1809. The following account of his death, which we extract from a life of that celebrated composer, recently published, is not destitute of interest:

"On my return to the Austrian capital, I have to inform you, my dear friend, that the larva of Haydn has also quitted us. That great man no longer exists, except in our memory. I have often told you, that he was become extremely weak before he entered his 78th year. It was the last of his life. No sooner did he approach his piano-forte, than the vertigo returned, & his hand quitted the keys to take up the rosary, that last consolation.

"The war broke out between Austria and France. This intelligence roused Haydn and exhausted the remnant of his strength. He was continually enquiring for news; he went every moment to his piano, and sang with the small thread of voice which he yet retained—

'God preserve the Emperor!'

The French armies advanced with gigantic strides. At length, on the night of the 10th May, having reached Schonbrun, half a league's distance fr. Haydn's little garden, they fired, the next morning, fifteen hundred cannon shot within two yards of his house, upon Vienna, the town which he so much loved. The old man's imagination represented it as given up to fire and sword. For bombs fell close to his house. His two servants ran to him full of terror. The old man, rousing himself, got up from his easy chair, and, with a dignified air, demanded, 'why this terror? know that no disaster can come where Haydn is.' A convulsive shivering prevented him from proceeding, and he was carried to his bed. On the 26th of May his strength diminished sensibly. Nevertheless, having caused himself to be carried to his piano, he sung thrice, as loud as he was able—

'God preserve the Emperor!'

"It was the song of the swan. While at the piano, he fell into a kind of stupor, and at last, expired on the morning of the 31st, aged 78 years and two months.

"Madame de Kurzbeck, at the moment of the occupation of Vienna, had entreated him to allow of his being removed to her house, in the interior of the city; he thanked her, but declined leaving his beloved retreat.

"During all his life, Haydn was very religious. Without assuming the preacher, it may be said, that his talent was encreased by his sincere faith in the truths of religion. At the commencement of all his scores, the following words are described: In nomine Domini, or, Soli Deo gloria; and at the conclusion of all of them is written—Laus Deo.

"When, in composing, he felt the ardor of his imagination decline, or was stopped by some insurmountable difficulty, he rose from the piano forte, & began to run over his rosary. He said, that he never found this method fail.—'When I was employed upon the creation,' said he, 'I felt myself so penetrated with religious feeling, that, before I sat down to the piano-forte, I prayed to God with earnestness, that he would enable me to praise him worthily."

Land for Sale.

IF early application is made, I will dispose of 400 acres of the CEDAR GROVE tract of land. There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I purpose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

This farm lies in the centre of an excellent neighborhood—is handsomely situated—abundantly watered, and has upon it an ample proportion of wood. The soil is naturally strong, and a considerable portion of it has for some years past, been cultivated according to the most approved rules of modern husbandry—Possession will be given on the first day of January next. The title is old, and indisputable, having been located and surveyed by Gen. Washington before the Revolution. What may be considered as adding much to its value is the passage of the western road thro' it. By a reference to Mr. Madison's map of Virginia, the situation of the land may be designated. Oct. 6 R. & J. MANDEVILLE

For Sale,

A TRACT of land, lying on the North Fork of Quantico Creek, and only two miles from the town of Dumfries, (known by the name of Clifton) containing about 230 acres. About two thirds of this tract is in wood—a part of the cleared land well enclosed. There is on this tract a good dwelling house, stables, &c.; and convenient to the dwelling house a grist mill, containing two pair of stones—one of burr, new, five feet diameter; the other Cologne. The mill is lately built. Every part of the gear new, and completely fitted for merchant work. The mill better secured from floods than any I am acquainted with, having but 8 feet of dam, with a short race, to admit of fall for a twenty-four feet overshot water wheel. In fact, the land is of good quality; the situation handsome and healthy; the stream a good one; and the mill new, spacious, and well finished, and lying in the most direct rout for a great part of the produce that comes to Dumfries to pass it. Possession can be had immediately, and the terms known by application to me, at Dumfries.

Sully for Sale.

THIS estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty two miles from Alexandria, and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry, Plaister of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and those, now untilled, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed: the outhouses are conveniently situated, and the whole have been lately thoroughly repaired and painted. The farm houses, which are all nearly new, are expensive and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate for an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincumbered.

A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds, and the crops of the present year, if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.

Application may be made to the subscriber, living on the premises, next the post-office at Pleasant Valley, in Fairfax.

Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a grey coat and pantaloons, but as he was well provided with cloathing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. It is believed he went off with his wife, who it appears left Richmond at the same time: she is very black, and, I believe, somewhat pitted with the small pox, talks a great deal, of short stature, and rather thick made. Ned is very artful, and may probably attempt to pass for a free man; he has a down look when spoken to. The above reward will be given if taken out of Richmond or Manchester, and twenty-five dollars if taken in either place, and all reasonable expenses paid for delivering him to the subscriber. James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from Lee's Medicine Store, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
